The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The prior art fails to teach the overall combination of a power-assisted bicycle with a detection system, a motor controller responsive to the detected value, and a ratchet gear having the features claimed. The detection system detects axial movement of a piece part relative to a tooth part of a ratchet gear of a one-way clutch, where one of the piece part and tooth part is mounted on the pedal drive shaft for axial movement relative thereto and the other part is connected to a drive sprocket. The prior art teach power-assisted bicycles with detection systems, but fail to teach the particular arrangement of the ratchet gear pieces on the drive shaft and sprocket, with the detection system responsive to relative movement of the parts.
